How to use this Course

Great, you want to help with discipling new Christians!

In just ten months #TheTurning has become one of the largest church based ministries to pray for people on the streets of the UK. #TheTurning discipleship course is unlike any other discipleship course you've used before, why? Most discipleship courses, such as Alpha, are generally group based, this is different; it offers the respondent a one-to-one discipleship experience. This is a tool to enable you to develop this one-to-one discipleship. It helps people who respond in prayer on the streets in two ways. Firstly, it helps them develop a meaningful relationship with a Christian whilst using the Bible as a follow up tool. Secondly it provides, through that discipleship relationship, an understanding of how church works and how they can engage with it.

The many excellent group based courses, such as Alpha, are primarily helpful for family and friends and for people that have been witnessed to over a period of time. One-to-one discipleship is essential in #TheTurning to turn what is a tenuous link with a stranger into a relationship within which discipleship can occur; a discipleship relationship. #TheTurning discipleship course builds a link which could develop into a friendship or at least help form an association within which the respondent sees and understands, through the biblical teachings of Christ, the benefit of personal growth and how, by following His teachings, they can become his disciple. Essentially this is a tool that bridges the gap between them being a stranger to the Bible, a stranger to the church, and a stranger to you to becoming a disciple of Christ.

This tool also serves a secondary purpose; to train Christians who have never had the privilege of discipling people one-to-one before. This course will help those who may feel they lack confidence or the skills required by following the simple steps you will gain greater confidence in the discipleship process. Anyone can use this!

The difference between your friends responding and reaching out to strangers.

Everyone engaged in the process of trying to bring the respondents into community life must bear this point in mind; if those who respond on the streets had wanted to attend church they would have done so a long time ago. The fact that they're open to Christ and willing to engage with him is an indication that they are open to God and while many of them will not understand the full implications of their prayers many others will. We have found that many of them are happy to meet up and talk through the decision they made on the streets.

Practical considerations

There are practical considerations that you have to ensure you pay attention to. The first is that the first few one-to-one follow-up meetings must be done in a safe public venue. We advocate that the initial setting for the one-to-one discipleship follow up is in a neutral venue over a cup of coffee (or cup of tea or any of the kind of soft drink!) that enables the discipleship course below to be used. We advocate a public venue for the initial follow up because it provides a safe venue for both the respondent and the Christian doing the follow up, giving both parties an opportunity to get to know one another.

We advocate that before you go to meet a respondent for the first time that you let someone else (perhaps someone in your Church) know who you are meeting, where and what time you are meeting them. You should also arrange to call them back to let them know you have finished the meeting and are on the way back home safely.

The meeting itself will take around an hour and a half with that time being accounted for in the following way; an hour at the venue with fifteen minutes getting to the appointment and fifteen minutes to get back home. Make sure you give yourself plenty of time to arrive at the agreed time. It is essential that we are faithful once a meeting has been set up but don't be discouraged if you must rearrange the meeting several times at the request of the respondent. Ensure that you have a copy of the discipleship tool with you. The course is available online, on iTunes and will be downloadable from amazon and other online outlets for free.

At the first meeting, you can also encourage them to download it for themselves but always take a paper copy with you to gift to them at the meeting. On your way to the event pray. It will do you a world of good, very often we carry anxieties and fears and prayer help calm our nerves and gives God a chance to minister into our heart even as we seek to minister to the respondent. We also encourage that your follow up journey should be shared with your fellow home group members so that they can also pray for you and cover you in prayer.

Now at the meeting it is important that you trust the Holy Spirit to give you the words to say; remember most of us Christians have heard countless sermons and know a lot more than we give ourselves credit for. In any case, if the respondent asks a question for which we have no answer all we have to say is "I'll find out and get back to you". At the end of each session always set a date for the next meeting before you leave, this way you ensure continuity for yourself and the respondent.

How this course is formatted

The format of the Discipleship sessions below are consistent throughout each session. Each session is organised into four clear sections with understandable goals and is entirely question based.

It's always starts with a section 'Goals for this session' in which we are setting clear goals so that everyone involved understands what is a successful outcome and can assess if the session has achieved its purpose. We strongly encourage that the respondent is given a copy of the material so they can follow and see what questions are coming up and, in that way, avoid any unnecessary embarrassment. The second section 'Let's make sense of your journey so far'- asks key questions about the wellbeing and spiritual development of the respondent since the last meeting. The third session is a theological question 'Understanding your Faith'. This is the biblical part of each session and it is intended to bring them into a relationship with the Bible. It is important to remember that many people nowadays have very little biblical understanding. We encourage that you help them access a bible. This is a critical part of the course because if they engage with the bible they are likely to grow faster and mature much more quickly than otherwise. We then proceed to the fourth and last session 'Purposeful lifestyle', this part of the course aims to explore with the respondent how in light of the Scriptures they should now seek to live out their lives.

You'll notice that the whole course is a series of questions. These questions are designed to elicit discussion and facilitate communication. The questions are intended and designed to provoke thought about their spiritual journey.

There are eight key skills that you will need to develop if you're going to do a good job, these are;

1. Patience

Getting that initial meeting with the respondent requires patience. We must remember that for many new converts we are not on the top of their priority list. Therefore, we will need to be patient if we have to call them several times before we can gain that first appointment or if they failed to turn up having made a promise to turn up.

2. Consistency

We must ensure that we are consistent. Having made an appointment to meet the respondent we must never cancel it without extraordinary reasons.

3. Tenacity

The British disposition is to avoid being pushy and to refrain from being insistent. We must be willing to keep on ringing the respondent until we finally meet up with them for the cup of tea or coffee.

4. Listening ear

The Turning Discipleship Course

The course is written with the respondent in mind. The course is full of questions and so it is important that you need develop this skill.

5. Non-judgmental approach

There are many things that the Bible speaks of regarding lifestyles and behaviours that are not compatible with walking with Christ. Our job, when we go out onto the streets, is not to be condemning of people but to love them and assure them that God loves them and is compassionate. You must avoid the temptation to correct or rebuke people, rather trust the Holy Spirit to convict where he needs to. If a direct question is asked about sinful behaviour then offer them your understanding of what the Bible says, by getting them to read the Scriptures. Do not just offer an opinion

6. Prayer

It is impossible to achieve the purposes of God by simply giving people information. This is a supernatural battle for the souls of the individuals you are sharing the gospel with.

Therefore, prayer is an important foundation to all our follow up endeavours.

7. The building of a discipleship relationship

The goal of this journey is not so much to build a friendship, although that may come but rather to help the respondent develop a lifestyle in which they take responsibility for their own spiritual development. What this course provides for them is the means to explain that journey with those around them. At the end of each session you should ensure they have the notes so that they can go back and share what they've gone through with the family and friends.

8. End goal

You should always keep the end goal in mind. The end goal is to make them a disciple of Jesus. Regardless of whether they choose to come to our church or go to another church we should keep this goal in mind. We are making converts to Christ and not converts of our church.

The benefits of this form of discipleship

Finally, this type of discipleship benefits everybody. For you, the benefits are that you begin to live a lifestyle that is obedient to Christ and his command that all disciples should be engaged in the job of making disciples. But if you pursue this form as a lifestyle you will essentially build the capacity to do it consistently for the rest of your life. For the church, the benefits of pursuing a discipleship program which every member learns how to disciple other results in the mobilisation of the whole church. We in truth through such discipleship take the church outside of the walls and set a trend for future generations. By bringing individual discipleship needs into our home group prayer time we ensure accountability for evangelism and discipleship is part of Christian development. And finally, for the converts and respondents the benefits are clear. They get a guiding friend to help them navigate their personal journey and when the time is right for them to come into church fellowship they have somebody to help them explain how church works. And finally, and probably most important they have someone to explain the Bible to them in a non-threatening environment.

We encourage inviting them to any socials that churches have, but avoid inviting them to church services until a relationship of some kind has been formed. The more the trust the respondent has the more likely they are to be able to cope with our church services.
